

Chapel Fell Woodland

Image: Chapel Fell

About the wood...

Planted in 2007-2008, Chapel Fell is a new native woodland situated above Malham Tarn.

The site covers 3 hectares and contains 3,000 trees.

Tree species include Ash, Hazel, Sessile Oak, Rowan, Downy Birch, Holly, Hawthorn, Bird Cherry, Elder and Juniper.

The trees have been individually protected with tree guards to prevent rabbit damage.

How to get there...

Chapel Fell woodland starts opposite the entrance to the Malham Tarn Field Study Centre and is adjacent to the public road leading to Arncliffe.

There is limited parking available on the road side approximately ½ mile below the entrance to the Field Centre.

Please Note: The woodland is situated on private land and is not open to the public (except on official YDMT woodland open days). There is perimeter access around the site via public footpaths which provide a good view of the woodland.

The Yorkshire Dales Millennium Trust is a small charity doing big things to support every aspect of life in the Yorkshire Dales. By supporting our work you have helped to restore part of the wonderful jigsaw of features which makes the Yorkshire Dales landscape so special.

Thank you.

We're passionate about restoring woodlands in the Yorkshire Dales. With your help we've planted over 1 million new native broadleaf trees so far, creating hundreds of natural woodlands which will absorb carbon, create vibrant wildlife habitats and enrich the landscape for people to enjoy. Thank you for your vital support.
