About the wood...

Laund Oak Wood is located on the Bolton Abbey Estate in Wharfedale. 4.5 hectares of new woodland were planted to extend and link to Strid Wood, an ancient woodland site and a Site of Special Scientific Interest, and Posforth Gill, an ancient replanted woodland site.

There are large, open grown oak trees throughout the site, most of which are mature or veteran trees. The oldest, Laund Oak, is thought to be over 700 years old.

Hawthorn, holly, rowan, juniper, crab apple and blackthorn have been planted. It has been rabbit fenced and made stock proof to allow natural regeneration from the existing oak trees which will then establish the woodland on part of the site.

How to get there...

The woodland is situated about 1.5 miles from the Sandholme Car Park adjacent to the Cavendish Pavilion on the Bolton Abbey Estate.

Cross the wooden bridge at the Cavendish Pavilion. Turn left and follow the path along the river. When the path reaches the road, cross the footbridge and continue up the road past the ancient oak tree where the road bears left. The new planting is on the right hand side of this road.

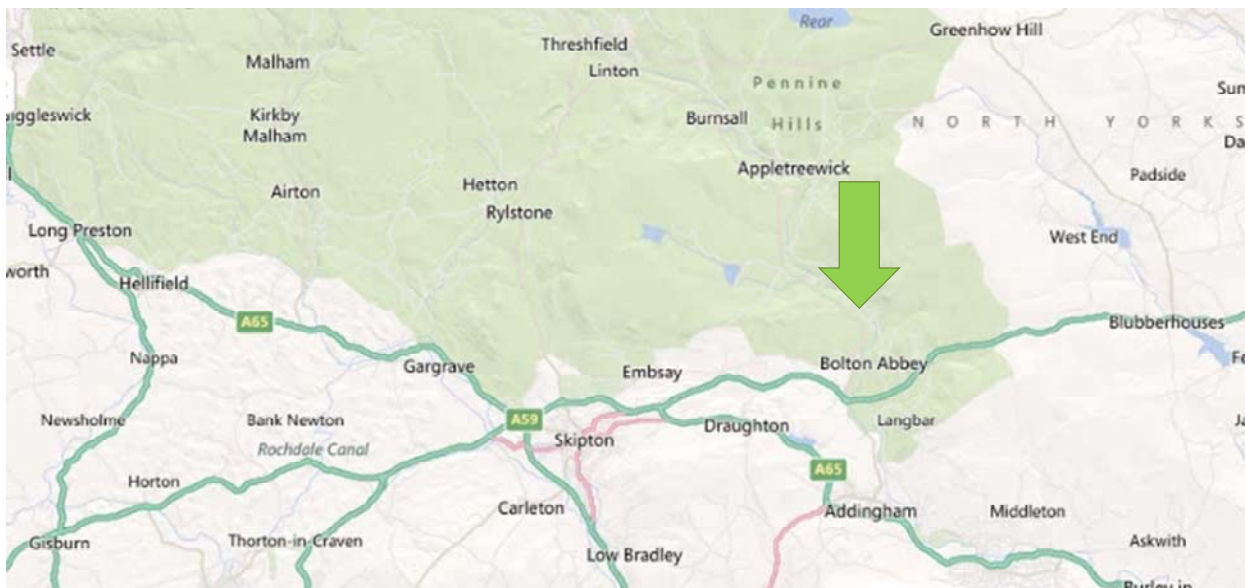

Please Note: The woodland is situated on private land - please keep to the footpaths.
